TRIVIA TIME

DID YOU KNOW?

The World's First Artificial Christmas Tree

Did you know? The first artificial Christmas trees were made in Germany in the 19th century — using dyed goose feathers!

The goose feather tree became the first artificial Victorian Christmas tree. Metal wire or sticks were covered with goose, turkey, ostrich or swan feathers. The feather sticks were drilled into a larger one to resemble the branches on a tree and the feathers were often dyed green to imitate pine needles. The trees were made to resemble the locally growing white pines of the German forestland thus the wide spaces between their branches, short "needles," and composition "berries" on the end of every branch tip.
